A Messy House

How To Play

While cleaning, take turns with your child being the parent. The person who is being the parent gives the other players directions on what to clean up next. When you, the parent, are being the parent, start with one step directions such as "pick up the train." When your child is ready, start giving 2 step directions such as "pick up a train and put it in the bucket." This is quite a functional game.

Tips

- Have fun!
- Start with one step directions and move up to 2 step directions.
- Add some time concepts such as first and next for good practice.
- Make sure your directions contain age appropriate vocabulary.
- Take turns with your child being the parent. It will be good expressive language practice to have your child give directions!
