Outside Play

How To Play

While outside with your child, talk about what other people or animals are doing. For example, you could comment that "the squirrel is climbing the tree" or "the leaf is falling." If you are at the park with other children, you might say "she is swinging, do you want to swing? "

By simply describing what you see outside, your child is exposed to lots of present progressive sentences and you don't really even have to think about it!

Tips

- Encourage your child to join in and make comments as well.
- See if your child can repeat your phrases. If he/she can't, don't force it!
